Chœur Ecclesiastique.

Programme Annotation.

The word Choeur means chorus, and though a chorus is generally understood to be a vocal composition for a number of voices, it is a favourite title for an organ piece with a strongly marked rhythm of the Grandioso type.

In this composition there is a slight ambiguity in the tonality of the opening phrase, chiefly through beginning with the chord of E minor, the piece being really in G major, this effect is often observed in old ecclesiastical music therefore the title "Choeur Ecclesiastique"

The contrasted passages for the different manuals render the piece particularly effective for displaying the capabilities and resources of an Organ.

Con Grandezza.

Programme Annotation.

As the name of this piece implies, it is dignified and majestic in character. It is of the Postlude type and, if not too short, might be suitable for performance at the conclusion of a service. The movement is well adapted to display the full power of an instrument.
